The article mainly described that a fast food courier, named Lei Haiwei, working in Hangzhou at present, beat other competitors, including a master's degree graduate from the prestigious Peking University, in the third season of the Chinese Poetry Conference on China Central Television on April 4. With his father influence, his interest in ancient poems began as early as he was six years old, and he was keen on reading poems, and he had deeply loved for poems. Lei began to read books related to ancient poems at bookstores or libraries in his spare time, this because of he couldn't afford to buy many books. He also developed a habit of reciting poems he liked, writing down them after returning home. Everything comes to him who waits, he gained a champion in this competition.

As the song that "life in front of more than struggling, and poetry and distant field." The success of the young man depend on his interest and love for ancient poems, and also rely on his unremitting efforts in days and mouths multiplying. If you had interest in something, you would love this thing, and pay your sweat to enjoy as if it were malt sugar, and you would obtain success by your efforts. Sweat will never flow, though it cannot achieve immediately results, but time will prove everything.
